Contents

Acknowledgments ix
Introduction: Womanhood on Trial  1
1. Narrative Intersections in Popular Trials  15
2. Framing Madness in the Sanity Trial of Elizabeth Parsons Ware Packard  21
3. The Mad Doctors Meet McNaughton: The Battle for Narrative Supremacy in the Trial of Mary Harris  39
4. “True Womanhood” and Perfect Madness: The Sanity Trial of Mary Todd Lincoln  69
5. Womanhood as Asset and Liability: Lizzie Andrew Borden  85
6. Bodies at the Crossroads: The Rise and Fall of Madame Restell  111
7. "You Know It When You See It": The Rhetorical Embodiment of Race and Gender in Rhinelander v. Rhinelander  136

Conclusion: Womanhood as Narrative  157
Notes  167
References  173
Index  185