

Contents

Foreword	Dan Morgenstern	xi
Preface	Terry Trilling-Josephson	xv
Acknowledgments	Terry Trilling-Josephson	xix

PART 1: A NIGHTCLUB LIKE NO OTHER

Prelude	Terry Trilling-Josephson	3
1.	“Take my advice, go back to Trenton and open a shoe store that sells health shoes.”	5
2.	“I’ve got Billie Holiday. . . .’ ‘Who is she?’ I asked.”	13
3.	“I saw Gypsy Rose Lee do a political striptease.”	18
4.	“Tell your friend to call it Cafe Society.”	23
5.	“There we were, occupying six windows of the elegant Bergdorf-Goodman.”	30
6.	“What he should have is six goils and one guy.”	37
7.	“You’ll be a big star.”	41
8.	“Billie looked at me. ‘What do you want me to do with that, man?’”	45
9.	“You don’t keep anybody working for you under contract. That’s slavery.”	54
10.	“Never borrow a week’s salary from the M.C. to pay other bills.”	62

11. “There will be no craps-shooting Negroes in my place.” . . . . . 66

PART 2: BROTHER, CAN YOU SPARE A DIME?

12. “Always hand-me-downs like that,
but I had beautiful clothes.” . . . . . 77
13. “She was a remarkable woman, way ahead of her time.” . . . . 84
14. “As natural to me as drinking a glass of milk.” . . . . . 88
15. “Leon set up that kind of thing, share and share alike.” . . . . 93
16. “I had never dated a girl.” . . . . . 96
17. “The workers sleeps in a old straw bed and shivers from the cold.” . . . . . 99

PART 3: RIDING THE CREST

18. “I’m the right man in the wrong place.” . . . . . 105
19. “A Rockefeller can afford to wear such a coat.” . . . . . 110
20. “Everybody was making a big fuss over me.” . . . . . 116
21. “Lena, what do you think a song is?” . . . . . 119
22. “Truth to tell, I was falling.” . . . . . 126
23. “Nine months later she dropped a bomb on me.” . . . . . 132
24. “You have to be her trustee.” . . . . . 136
25. “I’m nobody’s fat black mammy, but that’s how I make my money.” . . . . . 143
26. “Why don’t you call him Zero? He’s starting from nothing.” . . . . . 148
27. “No Zero.” . . . . . 155
28. “We are on the same beam together, Barney and Mildred.” . . . . . 161

29. “He’ll never come back.” . . . . .	164
30. “She took one leap.” . . . . .	169
31. “When Mary Lou plays it all looks so easy.” . . . . .	174
32. “I am, believe it or not, usually pretty shy.” . . . . .	181
33. “Mr. Josephson, you are asexual.” . . . . .	186
34. “I notice Adam eyeing Hazel.” . . . . .	188
35. “Ladies and gentlemen. This is a zither.” . . . . .	194
36. “I’m being more temperamental than John Barrymore.” . . . . .	198
37. “She can’t sing.” . . . . .	203
38. “I just saw a woman singing to chairs on empty tables.” . . . . .	206
39. “She took the check and flipped it back to me.” . . . . .	215

PART 4: BLOODY BUT UNBOWED

40. “Let’s have your passport.” . . . . .	223
41. “No one was building for Negroes.” . . . . .	229
42. “The Un-American Activities Committee itself was unconstitutional.” . . . . .	232
43. “I won’t be coming into the club anymore.” . . . . .	238
44. “Two future presidents were in attendance.” . . . . .	244
45. “The great Josephson contradiction.” . . . . .	249
46. “They’ll set you up.” . . . . .	253
47. “She blew her cover.” . . . . .	256
48. “That’s the way she washed herself.” . . . . .	259

49. “Will Geer, Will Hare, what the hell’s the difference?” . . . . .	262
--	-----

PART 5: BEGINNING AGAIN: THE COOKERY, 1955-82

50. “Mr. Anonymous” . . . . .	269
51. “We did it, Barney. You and me and the Lord Jesus Christ.” . . . . .	274
52. “If he liked an idea, he would do it.” . . . . .	278
53. “I’ll tell you, Teddy Wilson, you’ve just made Barney Josephson cry.” . . . . .	282
54. “He wasn’t deceitful about things.” . . . . .	287
55. “All I looked at was her mouth.” . . . . .	293
56. “You don’t need a contract with Barney Josephson.” . . . . .	301
57. “She and I know the secret of staying young.” . . . . .	307
58. “Several times Rosalynn Carter shaped her mouth into O’s of amazement.” . . . . .	313
59. “When the inspiration of God is missing, I just rely on talent.” . . . . .	318
60. “Her name meant nothing to me.” . . . . .	321
61. “Fame hasn’t changed me.” . . . . .	324
62. “In effect, this stripped me of my business.” . . . . .	330
Postlude . . . . .	337
Terry Trilling-Josephson
Notes . . . . .	343
Index . . . . .	365

Illustrations follow pages 44, 102, 202, 252, and 336.