

Contents

Acknowledgments	ix
Interpretive Overview	1
Prologue: Race and the Human Race	7

PART 1 The Colonial Period

1. How the American Racial System Began:
Atlantic Slavery Becomes Market-Driven and Color-Defined 13
2. Anglo Americans Adopt the Atlantic Racial System 24
3. The Construction of Planter Hegemony, 1676–1776 36
4. The Era of the American Revolution: The Challenge to Slavery and the Compromise 50

PART 2 The Antebellum Republic

5. The Old South's Triumph 65
6. The Old South's Crisis and the Emergence of the White Solidarity Myth 75
7. Emancipated but Black: Freedom in the Free States 93
8. The Planter and the "Wage Slave": A Reactionary Alliance 109
9. King Cotton's Jesters: The Minstrel Show Interprets Race for the White Working Class 120
10. The War of the Cabins: The Struggle for the Soul of the "Common Man" 130

PART 3 The Racial System Challenged and Revised

11. The Republican Revolution and the Struggle for a “New Birth of Freedom” 147
12. Reconstruction: The Radical Challenge, 1865–77 163
13. Between Slavery and Freedom: The Conservative Quest for a Halfway House 175

PART 4 The Racial System in a Rising Superpower

14. The Age of Segregation at Its Zenith: The Racial System in a World of Colonialism 189
15. Radical Challenge, Liberal Reform: African Americans Gain New Allies 199
16. The American Century, the American Dilemma 210
17. The Black Freedom Movement 221
18. The Racial System in the Age of Corporate Globalism, Technological Revolution, and Environmental Crisis 235

Notes 249

Index 321