Contents

Acknowledgments ix
Introduction 1

PART 1. WAR AND ITS AFTERMATH
1. Californians Secure Wartime Child Care 15
2. Postwar Hopes: The Fight for Permanent Child Care, 1945–47 39

PART 2. MOBILIZING DURING THE COLD WAR
3. Child Care “Is a State Problem”: Working Mothers and Educators Take Action, 1947–51 67
4. “We Need to Stand Together”: Theresa Mahler, Mary Young, and the Coalition’s Victory in the 1950s 93

PART 3. THE WAR ON POVERTY AND THE AGE OF PROTEST
5. “We Do Not Consider Ourselves Welfare Cases”: Education-based Child Care and Low-income Working Families, 1958–65 121
6. A Different Kind of Welfare State: California’s Child Care Coalition in the Age of Protest, 1966–71  141

Conclusion  169

Notes  175

Bibliography  217

Index  237