CONTENTS

Acknowledgments ix

Introduction: Taking the Long View of Election 2008 1
Liette Gidlow

PART I. REPRESENTATIONS: IS HILLARY MAN ENOUGH?
IS BARACK BLACK ENOUGH? IS MICHELLE THE NEW JACQUELINE KENNEDY?

1. Hillary Rodham Clinton, the Race Question, and the “Masculine Mystique” 19
   Kathryn Kish Sklar

2. Barack Obama and the Politics of Anger 26
   Tiffany Ruby Patterson

3. Michelle Obama, the Media Circus, and America’s
   Racial Obsession 39
   Mitch Kachun

PART II. HISTORICAL PRECEDENTS, OR HOW ELECTION
2008 BEGAN BEFORE THE CIVIL WAR

4. The 2008 Election, Black Women’s Politics, and the Long Civil Rights Movement 53
   Glenda Elizabeth Gilmore

5. The Forgotten Legacy of Shirley Chisholm:
   Race versus Gender in the 2008 Democratic Primaries 66
   Tera W. Hunter
6. Hillary Clinton’s Candidacy in Historical and Global Context 86
   Susan M. Hartmann

7. Defining a Maverick: Putting Palin in the Context of Western Women’s Political History 94
   Melanie Gustafson

8. Populist Currents in the 2008 Presidential Campaign 105
   Ronald P. Formisano

PART III. LEGACIES: DEMOCRACY UNDERMINED? FEMINISM REDEFINED?

   Paula Baker

10. Political Feminism and the Problem of Sarah Palin 137
    Catherine E. Rymph

    Conclusion: The Difference that “Difference” Makes 149
    Elisabeth Israels Perry

Historical Timeline 167
Contributors 169
Index 171