Contents

Dedication vii
Let's Call It Love  J. M. MAHLUM ix
Acknowledgments xiii
Introduction  DARLENE CLARK HINE xv

Part I. Black Chicago: History, Culture, and Community
Chapter 1. African American Cultural Expression in Chicago before the Renaissance: The Performing, Visual, and Literary Arts, 1893–1933  CHRISTOPHER ROBERT REED 3
Chapter 2. The Negro Renaissance: Harlem and Chicago Flowerings  SAMUEL A. FLOYD JR. 21
Chapter 3. The Problem of Race and Chicago’s Great Tivoli Theater  CLOVIS E. SEMMES 44
Chapter 4. The Defender Brings You the World: The Grand European Tour of Patrick B. Prescott Jr.  HILARY MAC AUSTIN 57

Part II. Black Chicago’s Renaissance: Culture, Consciousness, Politics, and Place
Chapter 5. The Dialectics of Placelessness and Boundedness in Richard Wright’s and Gwendolyn Brooks’s Fictions: Crafting the Chicago Black Renaissance’s Literary Landscape  ELIZABETH SCHLABACH 79
Chapter 6. Richard Wright and the Season of Manifestes
   JOHN McCUSKEY JR.  96

Chapter 7. Horace Cayton: No Road Home   DAVID T. BAILEY   110

Chapter 8. “Who Are You America but Me?” The American Negro Exposition, 1940   JEFFREY HELGESON  126

Chapter 9. Chicago’s Native Son: Charles White and the Laboring of the Black Renaissance   ERIK S. GELLMAN  147

Part III. Visual Art and Artists in the Black Chicago Renaissance

Chapter 10. Chicago’s African American Visual Arts Renaissance   MURRY N. DEPILLARS  165

Notes on Contributors  197

Index  201