Contents

Introduction by John Carlos Rowe vii

1. The Conceptual Impossibility of Racial Blackness:
   History, the Commodity, and Diasporic Modernity 1

2. Making the Flesh Word: Binomial Being and Representational Presence 44

3. Captivity, Desire, Trade: The Forging of National Form 72

4. The Intimate Civic: The Disturbance of the Quotidian 137

5. Modernism and the Affects of Racial Blackness 157
   Epilogue by Justin A. Joyce and Dwight A. McBride 191

Notes 195
Bibliography 213
Index 231