

Contents

Acknowledgments	ix
Introduction	1
1 The Burden of Bread: Bread Before Baking Powder	5
2 The Liberation of Cake: Chemical Independence, 1796	18
3 The Rise of Baking Powder Business: The Northeast, 1856–1876	33
4 The Advertising War Begins: “Is the Bread That We Eat Poisoned?” 1876–1888	51
5 The Cream of Tartar Wars: Battle Royal, 1888–1899	70
6 The Rise of Baking Powder Business: The Midwest, 1880s–1890s	82
7 The Pure Food War: Outlaws in Missouri, 1899–1906	96
8 The Alum War and World War I: “What a Fumin’ about Egg Albumen,” 1907–1920	117
9 The Federal Trade Commission Wars: The Final Federal Battle, 1920–1929	135
10 The Price War: The Fight for the National Market, 1930–1950	151

11	Baking Powder Today: Post–World War II to the Twenty-First Century	173
	Glossary	191
	Appendix: Baking Powder Use in Cookbooks	193
	Notes	197
	Bibliography	229
	Index	245