

Contents

Preface	ix
Acknowledgments	xv
Chapter 1. The African American Experience in Cabell County, Virginia / West Virginia, 1825–1870	1
Chapter 2. The “Grapevine Telegraph”: Post-Emancipation Black Community and Early Black Migrant Influx, 1865–1871	22
Chapter 3. Into the Crucible: The Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad and the Black Industrial Worker, 1870–1900	45
Chapter 4. Community, Race, and Class: Black Settlement Patterns, 1871–Early 1900s	70
Chapter 5. Institutional Development, Public Space, and Political Aspiration in Early Huntington, 1870–Early 1900s	93
Chapter 6. Spreading Our Wings: Afro-Huntingtonian Progress during the Era of “Benevolent Segregation”	117
Appendix A. Virginia Slave Totals, 1860	147
Appendix B. Occupational Statistics for Huntington’s African American Population	149
Notes	157
Bibliography	215
Index	237