Contents

Acknowledgments ix

Introduction 1

1 Imagining Africa, Inheriting Monstrosity: Gender, Blackness, and Capitalism in the Early Atlantic World 13

2 Between Human and Animal: The Disabling Power of Slave Law 39

3 Unfree Labor and Industrial Capital: Fitness, Disability, and Worth 69

4 Incorrigible Runaways: Disability and the Bodies of Fugitive Slaves 95

5 Bondsman or Rebel: Disability Rhetoric and the Challenge of Revolutionary Emancipation 127

Conclusion 161

Notes 167

Bibliography 197

Index 223