Pretty Good for a Girl
Women in Bluegrass

MURPHY HICKS HENRY

Untold and unsung stories of women in bluegrass

“This terrific book adds significantly to our knowledge of bluegrass music. Part reference and part impassioned argument, Pretty Good for a Girl is filled with extremely interesting narratives and has the firepower to become a great inspiration for a new generation of young women musicians.”
—Ellen Wright, coauthor (with Roni Stoneman) of Pressing On: The Roni Stoneman Story

“A fascinating history of bluegrass music from a female musician’s perspective. Wonderfully readable, brisk in its sweeping chronology of a huge topic, and filled with anecdotal gems that bring history to life, this is an enthralling and important book.”
—Thomas A. Adler, author of Bean Blossom: The Brown County Jamboree and Bill Monroe’s Bluegrass Festivals

The first book devoted entirely to women in bluegrass, Pretty Good for a Girl documents the lives of more than seventy women whose vibrant contributions to the development of bluegrass have been, for the most part, overlooked. Accessibly written and organized by decade, the book begins with Sally Ann Forrester, who played accordion and sang with Bill Monroe’s Blue Grass Boys from 1943 to 1946, and continues into the present with artists such as Alison Krauss, Rhonda Vincent, and the Dixie Chicks.

Drawing from extensive interviews, well-known banjoist Murphy Hicks Henry gives voice to women performers and innovators throughout bluegrass’s history, including such pioneers as Bessie Lee Mauldin, Wilma Lee Cooper, and Roni and Donna Stoneman; family bands including the Lewises, Whites, and McLains; and later pathbreaking performers such as the Buffalo Gals and other all-girl bands, Laurie Lewis, Lynn Morris, Missy Raines, and many others.

MURPHY HICKS HENRY is a professional banjo player, teacher, and writer living in Virginia. She founded the Women in Bluegrass newsletter and has written regularly for Bluegrass Unlimited and Banjo Newsletter. She is also the co-creator of The Murphy Method, a series of instructional videos on playing the banjo and other bluegrass instruments.

Sweet Air
Modernism, Regionalism, and American Popular Song
EDWARD P. COMENTALE

Finding meaning in the clash of modern life and local, rural musical culture

“Sweet Air is brilliant in its way of tracing the commercial genres of popular music from their purported regionalism to a deterritorialization made possible by modern technology. An original and engaging argument about regionalism and modernity.”
—Barbara Ching, author of Wrong’s What I Do Best: Hard Country Music and Contemporary Culture

“With the potential to be enormously influential, Sweet Air addresses American popular song as a whole while offering a compelling reinterpretation of the rise of pop music as an expansion of vernacular modernism. This book will be warmly received by a wide variety of scholars in American studies, southern studies, musicology, and popular music.”
—Diane Pecknold, author of The Selling Sound: The Rise of the Country Music Industry

Sweet Air rewrites the history of early twentieth-century pop music in modernist terms. Tracking the evolution of popular regional genres such as blues, country, folk, and rockabilly in relation to the growth of industry and consumer culture, Edward P. Comentale shows how this music became a vital means of exploring the new and often overwhelming feelings brought on by modern life. Comentale examines these rural genres as they translated the traumas of local experience—the racial violence of the Delta, the mass exodus from the South, the Dust Bowl of the Texas panhandle—into sonic form. Considering the accessibility of these popular music forms, he asserts the value of music as a source of progressive cultural investment, linking poor, rural performers and audiences to an increasingly vast network of commerce, transportation, and technology.

EDWARD P. COMENTALE is an associate professor of English at Indiana University and the author of Modernism, Cultural Production, and the British Avant-Garde.

Southern Soul-Blues
DAVID WHITEIS
Foreword by Denise LaSalle

Earthy and exuberant music with deep Southern roots

“Southern Soul-Blues takes on a woefully unexamined topic to make a significant contribution to studies in African American popular music. David Whiteis is a conscientious researcher, an astute observer, and a superlative writer.”
—Robert Pruter, author of Chicago Soul and Doowop: The Chicago Scene

Attracting passionate fans primarily among African American listeners in the South, southern soul draws on such diverse influences as the blues, 1960s-era deep soul, contemporary R & B, neosoul, rap, hip-hop, and gospel. Aggressively danceable, lyrically evocative, and fervidly emotional, southern soul songs often portray unabashedly carnal themes, and audiences delight in the performer-audience interaction and communal solidarity at live performances.

Examining the history and development of southern soul from its modern roots in the 1960s and 1970s, David Whiteis highlights some of southern soul’s most popular and important entertainers and provides first-hand accounts from the clubs, show lounges, festivals, and other local venues where these performers work. Profiles of veteran artists such as Denise LaSalle, the late J. Blackfoot, Latimore, and Bobby Rush—as well as contemporary artists T. K. Soul, Ms. Jody, Sweet Angel, Willie Clayton, and Sir Charles Jones—touch on issues of faith and sensuality, artistic identity and stereotyping, trickster antics, and future directions of the genre. These revealing discussions, drawing on extensive new interviews, also acknowledge the challenges of striving for mainstream popularity while still retaining the cultural and regional identity of the music and of maintaining artistic ownership and control in the age of digital dissemination.

DAVID WHITEIS is an author, freelance writer, and educator living in Chicago. He is the author of Chicago Blues: Portraits and Stories, and his articles and reviews have appeared in Living Blues, The Chicago Reader, Down Beat, Juke Blues, Jazz Times, and elsewhere.

Chicago Skyscrapers, 1871–1934
THOMAS LESLIE

A detailed tour, inside and out, of Chicago’s distinctive towers from an earlier age

“This groundbreaking and ambitious study provides a thorough technical history of the development of Chicago skyscrapers in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries. Thomas Leslie’s work on this vital subject synthesizes existing research and extends the field in exciting new directions.”
—John A. Ochsendorf, Massachusetts Institute of Technology

For more than a century, Chicago’s skyline has included some of the world’s most distinctive and inspiring buildings. This history of the Windy City’s skyscrapers begins in the key period of reconstruction after the Great Fire of 1871 and concludes in 1934 with the onset of the Great Depression, which brought architectural progress to a standstill. During this time, such iconic landmarks as the Chicago Tribune Tower, the Wrigley Building, the Marshall Field and Company Building, the Chicago Stock Exchange, the Palmolive Building, the Masonic Temple, the City Opera, Merchandise Mart, and many others rose to impressive new heights, thanks to innovations in building methods and materials. Solid, earthbound edifices of iron, brick, and stone made way for towers of steel and plate glass, imparting a striking new look to Chicago’s growing urban landscape.

Thomas Leslie reveals the daily struggles, technical breakthroughs, and negotiations that produced these magnificent buildings. He also considers how the city’s infamous political climate contributed to its architecture, as building and zoning codes were often disputed by shifting networks of rivals, labor unions, professional organizations, and municipal bodies.

Featuring more than a hundred photographs and illustrations of the city’s physically impressive and beautifully diverse architecture, Chicago Skyscrapers, 1871–1934 highlights an exceptionally dynamic, energetic period of architectural progress in Chicago.

THOMAS LESLIE, AIA, is the Pickard Chilton Professor of Architecture at Iowa State University and the author of Louis I. Kahn: Building Art, Building Science.

The Architecture of Barry Byrne
Taking the Prairie School to Europe

VINCENT L. MICHAEL

One of Frank Lloyd Wright’s earliest apprentices, a visionary of modern Catholic church buildings

“A very exciting topic and a study that is long overdue. Michael puts Barry Byrne’s modernist perspective into the context of Catholic doctrine and Catholic architecture in a way that is illuminating and convincing.”
—Paul Kruty, author of Frank Lloyd Wright and Midway Gardens

“Michael effectively promotes awareness of the innovative architecture of Barry Byrne, a prominent and important designer of modernist Catholic churches. For readers interested in modern architecture and design, religious architecture, Catholic history, Chicago architecture, or Frank Lloyd Wright.”

Barry Byrne (1883–1967) was a radical architect who sought basic principles as fervently as his mentor Frank Lloyd Wright and his inspiration Louis Sullivan, forging an individual style with taut planar skins enveloping modern space plans. In 1922 he designed the first modern Catholic church building, St. Thomas the Apostle in Chicago, and in 1924 he traveled to Europe where he met Mies, Mendelsohn, Oud, and other modernist architects. He was the only Prairie School architect to build in Europe, designing the concrete Church of Christ the King, built in 1928–31 in Cork, Ireland. A dedicated modernist and progressive Catholic, Byrne concentrated for much of his career on Catholic churches and schools throughout North America, many of them now considered landmarks.

This book charts the entire length of Byrne’s work, highlighting its distinctive features while discussing the cultural conditions that kept Byrne in the shadows of his more famous contemporaries. Illustrated by more than one hundred photographs and drawings, this biography explores the interplay of influences and impulses—individualism and communalism, modernism and tradition, pragmatism and faith—enduring throughout Byrne’s life and work.

VINCENT L. MICHAEL is Executive Director of the Global Heritage Fund in Palo Alto, California, the John H. Bryan Chair of Historic Preservation at the School of the Art Institute of Chicago, and a Trustee of the National Trust for Historic Preservation.

The Global Guide to Animal Protection
EDITED BY ANDREW LINZEY

Foreword by Archbishop Desmond Tutu

An interdisciplinary compendium of worldwide animal rights issues

“This broadly appealing multidisciplinary work will interest scholars in the sciences and humanities as well as general readers committed to animal welfare issues. While it draws attention to many contemptible forms of animal abuse, it also offers glimmers of hope by highlighting the positive work of numerous animal advocates who work to protect our nonhuman cohabitants of planet Earth.”

—Marc R. Fellenz, author of The Moral Menagerie: Philosophy and Animal Rights

Raising awareness of human indifference and cruelty toward animals, The Global Guide to Animal Protection includes more than 180 introductory articles that survey the extent of worldwide human exploitation of animals from a variety of perspectives. In addition to entries on often disturbing examples of human cruelty toward animals, the book provides inspiring accounts of attempts by courageous individuals—including Jane Goodall, Shirley McGreal, Birute Mary Galdikas, Bernard E. Rollin, and Roger Fouts—to challenge and change exploitative practices.

This volume will be an indispensable aid to general readers, activists, scholars, and students interested in developing a keener awareness of cruelty to animals and considering avenues for reform. Also included is a special foreword by Archbishop Desmond Tutu, urging readers to seek justice and protection for all creatures, humans and animals alike.

ANDREW LINZEY is a member of the Faculty of Theology at the University of Oxford and director of the Oxford Centre for Animal Ethics. He has written or edited more than twenty books, including Animal Theology, Animals on the Agenda: Questions about Animals for Theology and Ethics, and Why Animal Suffering Matters: Philosophy, Theology, and Practical Ethics.

Rooting for the Home Team

Sport, Community, and Identity

EDITED BY DANIEL A. NATHAN

Civic pride and personal identity in local sports teams

“This fine anthology shows the confluence of sport, identity, and community in a variety of settings. Outstanding essays by skilled writers.”

—Ronald A. Smith, author of Pay for Play: A History of Big-Time College Athletic Reform

Rooting for the Home Team examines how various American communities create and maintain a sense of collective identity through sports. Looking at large cities such as Chicago, Baltimore, and Los Angeles as well as small rural towns, suburbs, and college towns, the contributors consider the idea that rooting for local athletes and home teams often symbolizes a community’s preferred understanding of itself, and that doing so is an expression of connectedness, public pride and pleasure, and personal identity.

Some of the wide-ranging essays point out that financial interests also play a significant role in encouraging fan bases, and modern media have made every seasonal sport into yearlong obsessions. Celebrities show up for big games, politicians throw out first pitches, and taxpayers pay plenty for new stadiums and arenas. The essays in Rooting for the Home Team cover a range of professional and amateur athletics, including teams in basketball, football, baseball, and even the phenomenon of no-glove softball.

Friday Night Fighter
Gaspar “Indio” Ortega and the Golden Age of Television Boxing
TROY RONDINONE

The rise of televised boxing and one of its most watch and beloved fighters

“El Indio Gaspar Ortega will always be our first champion. We love him, we cherish him, and we respect him.”
—Carlos Santana

“Troy Rondinone masterfully and nostalgically captures the romance of boxing on television in the 1950s. It was a sport on the air, in your living room, and at its crossroads. The Friday Night Fighters may be gone—but they will never be forgotten.”
—Russell Sullivan, author of Rocky Marciano: The Rock of His Times

Friday Night Fighter relives a lost moment in American postwar history, when boxing ruled as one of the nation’s most widely televised sports. During the 1950s and 1960s, viewers tuned in weekly, sometimes even daily, to watch widely-recognized fighters engage in primordial battle, with the Gillette Cavalcade of Sports Friday Night Fights being the most popular fight show. Troy Rondinone follows the dual narratives of the Friday Night Fights show and the individual story of Gaspar “Indio” Ortega, a boxer who appeared on primetime network television more than almost any other boxer in history. From humble beginnings growing up poor in Tijuana, Mexico, Ortega personified the phenomenon of postwar boxing at its greatest, appearing before audiences of millions to battle the biggest names of the time, such as Carmen Basilio, Tony DeMarco, Chico Vejar, Benny “Kid” Paret, Emile Griffith, Kid Gavilan, Florentino Fernández, and Luis Manuel Rodríguez.

Rondinone explores the factors contributing to the success of televised boxing, including the rise of television entertainment, the role of a “reality” blood sport, Cold War masculinity, changing attitudes toward race in America, and the influence of organized crime. At times evoking the drama and spectacle of the Friday Night Fights themselves, this volume is a lively examination of a time in history when Americans crowded around their sets to watch the main event.

TROY RONDINONE is an associate professor of history at Southern Connecticut State University and the author of The Great Industrial War: Framing Class Conflict in the Media, 1865–1950.

The Death and Life of Malcolm X

PETER GOLDMAN

with a new preface

A powerful account of Malcolm X’s life and the causes for which he died

“Goldman, stunningly eloquent, accurately gauges the impact of Malcolm’s life on a whole generation of black people . . . . Malcolm would have, I think, approved of Goldman’s biography and that would have been no faint praise.”
—New York Times Book Review

“Peter Goldman has written a masterful account . . . . An indispensable starting point for anyone interested in contemporary black life.”
—Washington Post Book World

“Although originally written more than three decades ago, Newsweek editor/journalist Peter Goldman’s The Death and Life of Malcolm X . . . still remains an excellent introduction to the man and his times.”
—Manning Marable, Souls: A Critical Journal of Black Politics, Culture and Society

“Subtly and skillfully illumines Malcolm’s career . . . . Goldman’s book, the first full-scale life of Malcolm X, remains an indispensable biography of the enigmatic leader.”
—Michael Eric Dyson, New York Times

The Death and Life of Malcolm X provides a dramatic portrait of one of the most important black leaders of the twentieth century. Focusing on Malcolm X’s rise to prominence and the final year of his life, the book details his rift with the Nation of Islam and its leader, Elijah Muhammad, leading to death threats and eventually assassination at the hands of a death squad. In a new preface for this edition, Peter Goldman reflects on the forty years since the book’s first publication and considers new information based on FBI surveillance that has since come to light.

PETER GOLDMAN is an author and journalist living in New York City. A former national-affairs writer and senior editor at Newsweek, he is the author of eleven books including, most recently, his first novel, The Last Minstrel Show: A Detective Story.

A Biography
3rd Edition
DAVID LEVERING LEWIS

The essential biography of Martin Luther King Jr., in a new edition

“David Levering Lewis’s classic biography of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. captured the voices and feeling of the times in its thoughtful and thorough early review of Dr. King’s legacy. I am deeply grateful it is being introduced to a new generation of readers and commend it to all.”
—Marian Wright Edelman, President, Children’s Defense Fund

“Initially published soon after the assassination of Martin Luther King Jr., David Levering Lewis’s biography was an extraordinary achievement—a readable narrative full of historical insight. He judiciously illuminates King’s achievements while also acknowledging his flaws and limitations. Subsequent studies have provided more detailed accounts of various aspects of King’s life, but Lewis’s perceptive portrait continues to reward readers seeking to understand King’s historical significance.”
—Clayborne Carson, Director, Martin Luther King Jr. Research and Education Institute

“A well-researched, clearly written and well-balanced account.”
—Charles V. Hamilton, New York Times Book Review

“A striking book that raises arguments about King and the movement he sprang from.”
—Julian Bond, Chairman Emeritus of the NAACP Board of Directors

Acclaimed by leading historians and critics when it appeared shortly after the death of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., this foundational biography wends through the corridors in which King held court, posing the right questions and providing a keen measure of the man whose career and mission enthral scholars and general readers to this day. Updated with a new preface and more than a dozen photographs of King and his contemporaries, this edition presents the unforgettable story of King’s life and death for a new generation.

DAVID LEVERING LEWIS is Julius Silver University Professor and professor of history at New York University. Each volume of his two-volume W. E. B. Du Bois biography won the Pulitzer Prize for Biography. He is the author of eight books and editor of two more.

The Negro in Illinois
The WPA Papers
EDITED BY BRIAN DOLINAR

An extraordinary document of the African American experience

“An exciting act of scholarly recovery. The Negro in Illinois papers, at long last available, are an invaluable guide to the role of American writers in crafting one of the first composite narratives of African American life. This dynamic volume shows us history from below in the making and being made.”

—Bill V. Mullen, coeditor of Afro Asia: Revolutionary Political and Cultural Connections between African Americans and Asian Americans

“This landmark study provides a unique window onto the work of the Illinois unit of the Federal Writers’ Project. A commendable work of historical recovery.”

—Richard Courage, coauthor of The Muse in Bronzeville: African American Creative Expression in Chicago, 1932–1950

A major document of African American participation in the struggles of the Depression, The Negro in Illinois was produced by a special division of the Illinois Writers’ Project, one of President Roosevelt’s Works Progress Administration programs. Headed by Harlem Renaissance poet Arna Bontemps and white proletarian writer Jack Conroy, The Negro in Illinois employed major black writers living in Chicago during the 1930s, including Richard Wright, Margaret Walker, Katherine Dunham, Fenton Johnson, Frank Yerby, and Richard Durham. The authors chronicled the African American experience in Illinois from the beginnings of slavery to Lincoln’s emancipation and the Great Migration, with individual chapters discussing various aspects of public and domestic life, recreation, politics, religion, literature, and performing arts. After the project was canceled in 1942, most of the writings went unpublished for more than half a century—until now. Editor Brian Dolinar provides an informative introduction and epilogue which explain the origins of the project and place it in the context of the Black Chicago Renaissance.

BRIAN DOLINAR teaches in the department of African American studies at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign and is the author of The Black Cultural Front: Black Writers and Artists of the Depression Generation.

Lynching Beyond Dixie
American Mob Violence Outside the South
EDITED BY MICHAEL J. PFEIFER

Lynching as a national phenomenon

“Theoretically sophisticated, well documented, and superbly written, this volume provides an in-depth examination of lynching outside the South and will stand out as a fresh and unique contribution to recent scholarship on lynching.”
—Margaret Vandiver, author of Lethal Punishment: Lynchings and Legal Executions in the South

“A must read for all historians who work on lynching and mob violence in American history.”
—Manfred Berg, author of Popular Justice: A History of Lynching in America

In recent decades, scholars have explored much of the history of mob violence in the American South, especially in the years after Reconstruction. However, the lynching violence that occurred in American regions outside the South, where hundreds of persons, including Hispanics, whites, African Americans, Native Americans, and Asian Americans died at the hands of lynch mobs, has received less attention. This collection of essays by prominent and rising scholars fills this gap by illuminating the factors that distinguished lynching in the West, the Midwest, and the Mid-Atlantic. The volume adds to a more comprehensive history of American lynching and will be of interest to all readers interested in the history of violence across the varied regions of the United States.

Exporting Perilous Pauline

Pearl White and the Serial Film Craze

EDITED BY MARINA DAHLQUIST

Daring queens of the screen in early cinema history

“This consistently clear and accessible collection includes fascinating case studies on film star Pearl White and the impact of the serial film format, examining an important but still under-examined area in early cinema.”

—Vicki Callahan, editor of Reclaiming the Archive: Feminism and Film History

Exceptionally popular during their time, the spectacular American action film serials of the 1910s featured exciting stunts, film tricks, and effects set against the background of modern technology, often starring resourceful female heroines who displayed traditionally male qualities such as endurance, strength, and authority. The most renowned of these “serial queens” was Pearl White, whose career as the adventurous character Pauline developed during a transitional phase in the medium’s evolving production strategies, distribution and advertising patterns, and fan culture. In this volume, an international group of scholars explores how American serials starring Pearl White and other female stars impacted the emerging cinemas in the United States and abroad. Contributors investigate the serial genre and its narrative patterns, marketing, cultural reception, and historiographic importance, with essays on Pearl White’s life on and off the screen as well as the “serial queen” genre in Western and Eastern Europe, India, and China. Contributors are Weihong Bao, Rudmer Canjels, Marina Dahlquist, Monica Dall’Astas, Kevin B. Johnson, Christina Petersen, and Rosie Thomas.

MARINA DAHLQUIST is an associate professor of cinema studies at Stockholm University.

Todd Haynes

ROB WHITE

Radical readings of a pioneer in queer cinema

“Driven by an equally passionate love and questioning of Haynes’s films, Rob White’s energetic book surpasses mere survey to originate an important understanding of this important cinema.”

—D. A. Miller, author of 8 ½

Todd Haynes’s films are intricate and purposeful, combining the intellectual impact of art cinema with the emotional accessibility of popular genres. They are also underpinned by a serious commitment to feminism and queer theory. From his 1985 student film about Arthur Rimbaud to his shapeshifting portrait of Bob Dylan in I’m Not There (2007) and the riveting HBO mini-series Mildred Pierce (2011), Haynes has made films whose complex weave of stories and characters reveals dark, painful intensities. His taste for narrative experimentation and pastiche is haunted by anguish.

Rob White’s highly readable book, which includes a major new interview with Haynes, is the first comprehensive study of the director’s work. Special attention is paid to the fascination with music culture (from the Carpenters to glam rock) and to the rich pattern of allusions to, or affinity with, predecessor filmmakers (Fassbinder, Ophuls, Sirk, and many more). But White’s chief concern is the persistence of a queer impulse to explore social coercion and the possibility that there may be some way of escaping its cruelty.

Wampum and the Origins of American Money

MARC SHELL

A thoughtful exploration of the meanings and metaphors of American money

“I am struck with the remarkable depth and breadth of Marc Shell’s scholarship in this book, his fascinating focus on the role of bilingualism and especially wampum in the development of American banking and currency, and his intriguing plays on words and images. An extremely stimulating and enjoyable book.”

—Kathleen J. Bragdon, author of The Columbia Guide to American Indians of the Northeast

“Not only does this book illuminate an interesting and little-discussed corner of American cultural history—the history and cultural significance of currency—but it does so in an open and engaging style. Provocative and filled with creative ideas.”

—Frederick E. Hoxie, coeditor of Lewis and Clark and the Indian Country: The Native American Perspective

Wampum has become a synonym for money, and it is widely assumed that it served the same purposes as money among the Native Algonquians even after coming into contact with European colonists’ money. But to equate wampum with money only matches one slippery term with another, as money itself was quite ill-defined in North America for decades during its colonization.

In this stimulating and intriguing book, Marc Shell illuminates the context in which wampum was used by describing how money circulated in the colonial period and the early history of the United States. Wampum itself, generally tubular beads made from clam or conch shells, was hardly a primitive version of a coin or dollar bill, as it represented to both Native Americans and colonial Europeans a unique medium through which language, art, culture, and even conflict were negotiated. With irrepressible wit and erudition, Shell interweaves wampum’s multiform functions and reveals wampum’s undeniable influence on the cultural, political, and economic foundations of North America.

MARC SHELL is Irving Babbitt Professor of Comparative Literature and professor of English at Harvard University. He is the author of many books, including The Economy of Literature and Money, Language, and Thought.

Yellow Power, Yellow Soul
The Radical Art of Fred Ho
EDITED BY ROGER N. BUCKLEY AND TAMARA ROBERTS

Potent takes on the larger-than-life dissident musician and activist

“This powerful volume is an antiphonal response to Fred Ho’s revolutionary music and politics. Ho’s aesthetics are assertive, demanding, unequivocal, absolute, polemical, unrelenting, and beautiful, and his friends and colleagues have responded in kind. This collection carries forward Ho’s message.”
—Deborah Wong, author of Speak It Louder: Asian Americans Making Music

This dynamic collection explores the life, work, and persona of saxophonist Fred Ho, an unabashedly revolutionary artist whose illuminating and daring work redefines the relationship between art and politics. Scholars, artists, and friends give their unique takes on Ho’s career, articulating his artistic contributions, their joint projects, and personal stories. Exploring his musical and theatrical work, his political theory and activism, and his personal life as it relates to politics, Yellow Power, Yellow Soul offers an intimate appreciation of Fred Ho’s irrepressible and truly original creative spirit.

Fighting from a Distance
How Filipino Exiles Toppled a Dictator
JOSE V. FUENTECILLA

A first-hand account of immigrants’ resistance from the U.S. against the Marcos regime in the Philippines

“A well researched, engaging narrative of the Filipino exile movement in the United States to topple the Marcos dictatorship in the Philippines. Fuentecilla is gifted with a journalistic eye for human interest stories of resistance and activism that will keep readers enthralled.”
—Augusto Fauni Espiritu, author of Five Faces of Exile: The Nation and Filipino American Intellectuals

In this book, Jose V. Fuentecilla describes how Filipino exiles and immigrants in the United States played a crucial role in the grassroots revolution that overthrew the fourteen-year dictatorship of former President Ferdinand Marcos in the Philippines in 1986. A member of one of the major U.S.-based anti-Marcos movements, Fuentecilla tells the story of how small groups of Filipino exiles—short on resources and shunned by some of their compatriots—overcame fear, apathy, and personal differences to form opposition organizations after Marcos’ imposition of martial law and learned to lobby the U.S. government during the Cold War. The first full-length book to detail the history of U.S.-based opposition to the Marcos regime, Fighting From a Distance provides valuable lessons on how to persevere in fighting a well-entrenched opponent.

A native of the Philippines, JOSE V. FUENTECILLA emigrated to the United States in the 1960s. He has lived and worked as a journalist and editor in New York City.

Indian Accents
Brown Voice and Racial Performance in American Television and Film
SHILPA S. DAVÉ

A breakthrough approach in American studies and media culture that shifts the current conversations on Asian Americans and popular culture

“A truly innovative use of ‘accents’ as a methodological entry into understanding where South Asians are positioned within America and American popular culture. Persuasively argued and full of many sharp insightful moments, Indian Accents will be invaluable to scholars of American studies, Asian American studies, ethnic studies, and media studies.”
—Gita Rajan, coeditor of New Cosmopolitanisms: South Asians in the U.S.

Amid immigrant narratives of assimilation, Indian Accents focuses on the representations and stereotypes of South Asian characters in American film and television. Exploring key examples in popular culture ranging from Peter Sellers’ portrayal of Hrundi Bakshi in the 1968 film The Party to contemporary representations such as Apu from The Simpsons and characters in Harold and Kumar Go to White Castle, Shilpa S. Davé develops the ideas of “accent,” “brownface,” and “brown voice” as new ways to explore the racialization of South Asians beyond just visual appearance. Davé relates these examples to earlier scholarship on blackface, race, and performance to show how “accents” are a means of representing racial difference, national origin, and belonging, as well as distinctions of class and privilege. While focusing on racial impersonations in mainstream film and television, Indian Accents also amplifies the work of South Asian American actors who push back against brown voice performances, showing how strategic use of accent can expand and challenge such narrow stereotypes.

SHILPA S. DAVÉ is an assistant professor of American studies at Brandeis University and the coeditor of East Main Street: Asian American Popular Culture.

Alec Wilder
PHILIP LAMBERT

An all-embracing composer of popular and classical music

“Saturated with rich, detailed research, this book stands as a clear and concise introduction to Alec Wilder’s life and work that is carefully geared to appeal to both musicians and nonmusicians.”
—Jeffrey Magee, author of Irving Berlin’s American Musical Theater

The music of Alec Wilder (1907–1980) blends several American musical traditions, such as jazz and the American popular song, with classical European forms and techniques. Stylish and accessible, Wilder’s musical oeuvre ranged from sonatas, suites, concertos, operas, ballets, and art songs to woodwind quintets, brass quintets, jazz suites, and hundreds of popular songs. Wilder enjoyed a close musical kinship with a wide variety of musicians, including classical conductors such as Erich Leinsdorf, Frederick Fennell, and Gunther Schuller; jazz musicians Marian McPartland, Stan Getz, and Zoot Sims; and popular singers including Frank Sinatra, Mabel Mercer, Peggy Lee, and Tony Bennett.

In this biography and critical investigation of Wilder’s music, Philip Lambert chronicles Wilder’s early work as a part-time student at the Eastman School of Music, his ascent through the ranks of the commercial recording industry in New York City in the 1930s and 1940s, his turn toward concert music from the 1950s onward, and his devotion late in his life to the study of American popular songs of the first half of the twentieth century. The book discusses some of his best-known music, such as the revolutionary octets and songs such as “I’ll Be Around,” “While We’re Young,” and “Blackberry Winter,” and explains the unique blend of cultivated and vernacular traditions in his singular musical language.

PHILIP LAMBERT is a professor of music at Baruch College and the Graduate Center of CUNY. His other books include To Broadway, To Life! The Musical Theater of Bock and Harnick.

Charles Ives in the Mirror
American Histories of an Iconic Composer
DAVID C. PAUL

Locating representations of Ives within American cultural history

“By virtue of its depth of insight, its wide remit, and its succinct yet highly detailed presentation, this remarkable book is a considerable addition to the existing scholarship on this most fascinating of musical figures.”
—David Nicholls, author of John Cage

In this sweeping survey of intellectual and musical history, David C. Paul tells the new story of how the music of American composer Charles Ives (1874–1954) was shaped by shifting conceptions of American identity within and outside of musical culture. Paul focuses on the critics, composers, performers, and scholars whose contributions were most influential in shaping the critical discourse on Ives, many of them marquee names of American musical culture themselves, including Henry Cowell, Aaron Copland, Elliott Carter, and Leonard Bernstein.

Paul explores both how Ives positioned his music amid changing philosophical and aesthetic currents and how others interpreted his contributions to American music. Although Ives’s initial efforts to find a public in the early twenties attracted a few devotees, the resurgence of interest in the American literary past during the thirties made a concert staple of his “Concord” Sonata, a work dedicated to nineteenth-century transcendentalist writers. Paul shows how Ives was subsequently deployed as an icon of American freedom during the early Cold War period and how he came to be instigated at the head of a line of “American maverick” composers. Paul also examines why a recent cadre of scholars has beset the composer with Gilded Age social anxieties.

DAVID C. PAUL is an assistant professor of musicology and theory at the University of California, Santa Barbara.

The Great Orchestrator
Arthur Judson and American Arts Management
JAMES M. DOERING

The powerful music manager behind world-class orchestras and virtuoso artists in the early twentieth century

“This informative, interesting biography sheds new light on one of the most powerful eminences in the history of American concert music.”
—Michael Chary, author of George Szell: A Life of Music

This biography charts the career and legacy of the pioneering American music manager Arthur Judson (1881–1975), who rose to prominence in Philadelphia and New York at the beginning of the twentieth century. A violinist by training, Judson became manager of the Philadelphia Orchestra in 1915 under the iconic conductor Leopold Stokowski. Within a few years, Judson also took on management of the New York Philharmonic as well as several individual artists and most of the important conductors working in America. In addition to his colorful career behind the scenes at two preeminent American orchestras, Judson founded a nationwide network of local managers and later became involved in the relatively unexplored medium of radio, working first with WEAF in New York City and then later forming his own national radio network in 1927. Providing valuable insight into the workings of these orchestras and the formative years of arts management, The Great Orchestrator: Arthur Judson and American Arts Management is a valuable portrait of one of the most powerful managers in American musical history.

Beethoven’s “Eroica” Sketchbook
A Critical Edition
TRANSCRIPTED, EDITED, AND WITH A COMMENTARY BY LEWIS LOCKWOOD AND ALAN GOSMAN

Volume 1: Commentary and Transcription
Volume 2: Facsimile

A central source of insight into Beethoven’s creative mind at a crucial stage of his career

“A very impressive scholarly edition of the most famous and important of Beethoven’s sketchbooks, long treasured for their illumination of Beethoven’s works.”
—Joseph Kerman, author of Opera and the Morbidity of Music

Among Beethoven’s many surviving sketchbooks, one of the most famous is the “Eroica” Sketchbook, containing all the known sketches for the “Eroica” Symphony, the “Waldstein” Sonata, and other works of 1803–04. These include his first sketches for the opera Leonore (later entitled Fidelio), as well as the unfinished opera Vestas Feuer, the oratorio Christus am Oelberge, the Triple Concerto, songs, keyboard compositions, and early sketches that later bore fruit in the Fourth Piano Concerto and the Fifth and Sixth Symphonies. It also contains ideas for works that were never completed. This edition makes available both a complete facsimile and transcription of the sketchbook for the first time, along with a detailed commentary on the origins, contents, and significance of this vitally important source.

LEWIS LOCKWOOD is the Fanny Peabody Research Professor Emeritus at Harvard University and the author of Beethoven: The Music and the Life as well as other books on Beethoven. ALAN GOSMAN is an associate professor of music theory at the University of Michigan.

In Her Own Words
Conversations with Composers in the United States
JENNIFER KELLY

Women’s voices on musical composition, creativity, and gender

“This collection of interviews with women composers presents an exquisite picture of the power and beauty of human creativity. Each woman speaks with an eloquence, a force, or a poetry that distinguishes her as a vibrant, compelling artist.”
—Kristina G. Boerger, associate professor of music and director of choral activities, Carroll University

This collection of new interviews with twenty-five accomplished female composers substantially advances our knowledge of the work, experiences, compositional approaches, and musical intentions of a diverse group of creative individuals. With personal anecdotes and sometimes surprising intimacy and humor, these wide-ranging conversations represent the diversity of women composing music in the United States from the mid-twentieth century into the twenty-first. The composers work in a variety of genres including classical, jazz, multimedia, or collaborative forms for the stage, film, and video games. Their interviews illuminate questions about the status of women composers in America, the role of women in musical performance and education, the creative process and inspiration, the experiences and qualities that contemporary composers bring to their craft, and balancing creative and personal lives. Candidly sharing their experiences, advice, and views, these vibrant, thoughtful, and creative women open new perspectives on the prospects and possibilities of making music in a changing world.

JENNIFER KELLY is director of choral activities and assistant professor of music at Lafayette College, Pennsylvania, and the artistic director of the Concord Chamber Singers.

ANNOUNCING A NEW SERIES

New Perspectives on Gender in Music
LAURIE MATHESON, ACQUIRING EDITOR

Series Editors:
Susan C. Cook – University of Wisconsin
Beverley Diamond – Memorial University, Newfoundland

This series aims to present innovative studies of the intersections of music with gender and sexuality. Series books will explore the gendered cultural dynamics, embodiment and expression, repertoires, reception, social politics, performing practices, and so on of music, encompassing both western and nonwestern contexts and both ethnomusicological and historical approaches. Series books may include a significant theoretical or reflexive component, and they may reach into related fields such as dance and religion, to the extent that the approach clarifies ways in which gender informs the making and experiencing of music. Overall the series seeks to illuminate the ways in which gender is integral to the production and consumption of music in all of its forms.
No Votes for Women
The New York State Anti-Suffrage Movement
SUSAN GOODIER

An evenhanded look at the women who fought not to vote

“No Votes for Women fills an important gap in the current historical literature about suffrage and anti-suffrage movements. For the first time, Goodier describes the complicated, creative, and energetic dance of point and counter-point that suffragists and anti-suffragists created, revealing the ways in which suffragists and anti-suffragists learned from each other. A path-breaking work.”
—Judith Wellman, author of The Road to Seneca Falls: Elizabeth Cady Stanton and the First Woman’s Rights Convention

Susan Goodier explores the complicated history of the suffrage movement in New York State by delving into the stories of women who opposed the expansion of voting rights to women. She makes the case that, contrary to popular thought, women who opposed suffrage were not against women’s rights. Instead, conservative women who fought against suffrage encouraged women to retain their distinctive feminine identities as protectors of their homes and families, a role they felt was threatened by the imposition of masculine political responsibilities.

She details the victories and defeats on both sides of the movement from its start in the 1890s to its end in the 1930s, analyzing how local and state suffrage and anti-suffrage campaigns impacted the national suffrage movement. Rather than condemning the women of the anti-suffragist movement for accepting or even trying to preserve the status quo, No Votes for Women acknowledges the powerful activism of this often overlooked and misunderstood political force in the history of women’s equality.

SUSAN GOODIER is scholar-in-residence at Hamilton College and museum consultant at the Matilda Joslyn Gage Foundation in Fayetteville, New York.

Chasing Newsroom Diversity
From Jim Crow to Affirmative Action
GWYNETH MELLINGER

Missed opportunity in the newspaper industry’s diversity efforts

“Using the insights of whiteness studies and a rich array of primary sources, Mellinger demonstrates how and why the American Society of Newspaper Editors failed to achieve its 1978 diversity initiative’s hiring goals by the goal year of 2000. She persuasively argues that whiteness (and maleness) consistently operated as a professional norm within the ASNE across time, even as the organization’s leaders attempted to diversify newsrooms across America. A compelling and provocative book.”
—Kathy Roberts Forde, author of Literary Journalism on Trial: Masson v. New Yorker and the First Amendment

Gwyneth Mellinger explores the complex history of the decades-long American Society of Newspaper Editors diversity initiative, which culminated in the failed Goal 2000 effort to match newsroom demographics with those of the U.S. population. Drawing upon exhaustive reviews of ASNE archival materials, Mellinger examines the democratic paradox through the lens of the ASNE, an elite organization that arguably did more than any other during the twentieth century to institutionalize professional standards in journalism and expand the concepts of government accountability and the free press. The ASNE would emerge in the 1970s as the leader in the newsroom integration movement, but its effort would be frustrated by structures of exclusion the organization had embedded into its own professional standards. Explaining why a project so promising failed so profoundly, Chasing Newsroom Diversity expands our understanding of the intransigence of institutional racism, gender discrimination, and homophobia within democracy.

GWYNETH MELLINGER is a professor and chair of the Department of Mass Media and Visual Arts at Baker University.

Working for Justice
A Handbook of Prison Education and Activism
EDITED BY STEPHEN JOHN HARTNETT, ELEANOR NOVEK, AND JENNIFER K. WOOD

Practical approaches to prison education and advocacy

“Combining perspectives of communication studies, prison art programs, and prison education, Working for Justice contributes significantly to the current conversation about methods to combat the violence and racism inherent in America’s prison system. The book’s call to action will challenge the reader to engage as a participant in social change.”

—Judith A. Scheffler, editor of Wall Tappings: Women’s Prison Writings, 200 A.D. to the Present

This collection documents the efforts of the Prison Communication, Activism, Research, and Education collective (PCARE) to put democracy into practice by merging prison education and activism. PCARE works with prisoners, in prisons, and in communities to reclaim justice from the prison-industrial complex. Documenting hands-on case studies that emphasize educational initiatives, successful prison-based programs, and activist-oriented analysis, Working for Justice provides readers with real-world answers based on years of pragmatic activism and engaged teaching.

Eating Together: Food, Friendship, and Inequality
ALICE P. JULIER

The social dynamics of shared meals

“I eagerly read Eating Together: Food, Friendship, and Inequality, engulfing new insights offered in her cultural and sociological analysis of the significance of domestic hospitality in people’s lives. An excellent, much needed contribution to food studies as well as sociology and gender studies.”
—Psyche A. Williams-Forson, author of Building Houses out of Chicken Legs: Black Women, Food, and Power

An insightful map of the landscape of social meals, Eating Together: Food, Friendship, and Inequality argues that the ways in which Americans eat together play a central role in social life in the United States. Delving into a wide range of research, Alice P. Julier analyzes etiquette and entertaining books from the past century and conducts interviews and observations of dozens of hosts and guests at dinner parties, potlucks, and buffets. She finds that when people invite friends, neighbors, or family members to share meals within their households, social inequalities involving race, economics, and gender reveal themselves in interesting ways: relationships are defined, boundaries of intimacy or distance are set, and people find themselves either excluded or included.

ALICE P. JULIER is an associate professor and the director of the graduate program in food studies in the School of Sustainability and the Environment at Chatham University.

Macroanalysis: Digital Methods and Literary History
MATTHEW L. JOCKERS

Exploring the potential of large-scale digital literary analysis

“A truly significant exploration of the intersection of literary studies and computer-assisted text analysis. Through a series of perspectives and methodologies, Macroanalysis convincingly demonstrates the power and potential of literary text analysis.”
—Stéfan Sinclair, coauthor of Visual Interface Design for Digital Cultural Heritage

In this volume, Matthew L. Jockers introduces readers to large-scale literary computing and the revolutionary potential of macroanalysis—a new approach to the study of the literary record designed for probing the digital-textual world as it exists today, in digital form and in large quantities. Using computational analysis to retrieve key words, phrases, and linguistic patterns across thousands of texts in digital libraries, researchers can draw conclusions based on quantifiable evidence regarding how literary trends are employed over time, across periods, within regions, or within demographic groups, as well as how cultural, historical, and societal linkages may bind individual authors, texts, and genres into an aggregate literary culture.

Moving beyond the limitations of literary interpretation based on the “close-reading” of individual works, Jockers describes how this new method of studying large collections of digital material can help us to better understand and contextualize the individual works within those collections.

MATTHEW L. JOCKERS is an assistant professor of English at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Strange Natures
Futurity, Empathy, and the Queer Ecological Imagination
NICOLE SEYMOUR

Queering the “natural” world through film and fiction

“This lively study engages with and extends important emerging themes in queer theory and ecocriticism. Engagingly written and intricately argued, Strange Natures demonstrates an exemplary practice of queer ecological reading.”
—Catriona Sandilands, professor, faculty of environmental studies, York University, Toronto

In Strange Natures, Nicole Seymour investigates the ways in which contemporary queer fictions offer insight on environmental issues through their performance of a specifically queer understanding of nature, the nonhuman, and environmental degradation. By drawing upon queer theory and ecocriticism, Seymour examines how contemporary queer fictions extend their critique of “natural” categories of gender and sexuality to the nonhuman natural world, thus constructing a queer environmentalism.

Seymour’s thoughtful analyses of works such as Leslie Feinberg’s Stone Butch Blues, Todd Haynes’s Safe, and Ang Lee’s Brokeback Mountain illustrate how homophobia, classism, racism, sexism, and xenophobia inform dominant views of the environment and help to justify its exploitation. Calling for a queer environmental ethics, she delineates the discourses that have worked to prevent such an ethics and argues for a concept of queerness that is attuned to environmentalism’s urgent futurity, and an environmentalism that is attuned to queer sensibilities.

NICOLE SEYMOUR is an assistant professor of English at University of Arkansas at Little Rock.

SEAN P. HOLMES

Stage actors as workers

“A compelling story that needs to be told. This history of unionization within the theatrical profession provides crucial insights into theater management and the industrialization of the entertainment industry.”
—Gillian M. Rodger, author of Champagne Charlie and Pretty Jemima: Variety Theater in the Nineteenth Century

Published to coincide with the centenary of the founding of the Actors’ Equity Association in 1913, Weavers of Dreams, Unite! explores the history of actors’ unionism in the United States from the late nineteenth century to the onset of the Great Depression. Drawing upon hitherto untapped archival resources in New York and Los Angeles, Sean P. Holmes documents how American stage actors used trade unionism to construct for themselves an occupational identity that foregrounded both their artistry and their respectability. In the process, he paints a vivid picture of life on the theatrical shop floor in an era in which economic, cultural, and technological changes were transforming the nature of acting as work. This engaging study offers important insights into the nature of cultural production in the early twentieth century, the role of class in the construction of cultural hierarchy, and the special problems that unionization posed for workers in the commercial entertainment industry.

SEAN P. HOLMES is deputy head of the School of Arts at Brunel University in London. He teaches in the Film and Television Studies program.

Clinton Jencks and Mexican-American Unionism in the American Southwest
JAMES J. LORENCE

A trailblazer in American labor and civil liberties

“This authoritative and engagingly written biography makes a substantial contribution to the scholarship on the legendary labor figure of Clinton Jencks. A useful and welcome volume for historians of labor (especially in the southwest), communism, and Cold War anti-communism.”
—David Brundage, author of The Making of Western Labor Radicalism: Denver’s Organized Workers, 1878–1905

Labor historian James J. Lorence presents the first comprehensive biography of progressive labor organizer, peace worker, and economist Clinton Jencks (1918–2005). A key figure in the radical International Union of Mine, Mill, and Smelter Workers (IUMMSW) Local 890 in Grant County, New Mexico, Jencks was involved in organizing not only the mine workers but also their wives in the 1951 strike against the Empire Zinc Company. He was active in the production of the 1954 landmark labor film dramatizing the Empire Zinc strike, Salt of the Earth, which was heavily suppressed during the McCarthy era and led to Jencks’s persecution by the federal government.

JAMES J. LORENCE was a professor emeritus of history at the University of Wisconsin–Marathon County. His many books include the award-winning A Hard Journey: The Life of Don West.

Man of Fire
Selected Writings
ERNESTO GALARZA
Edited by Armando Ibarra and Rodolfo D. Torres

A collection of key works by the Latino labor activist and scholar

“Galarza was a prescient analyst and powerful writer, a scholar, poet, and social activist whose work has profoundly influenced and interested so many. This book will be of use to activists who interrogate political economy and develop strategies that address inequities in class and race.”
—Patricia Zavella, author of I’m Neither Here nor There: Mexicans’ Quotidian Struggles with Migration and Poverty

Activist, labor scholar, and organizer Ernesto Galarza (1905–1984) was a leading advocate for Mexican Americans and one of the most important Mexican American scholars and activists after World War II. This volume gathers Galarza’s key writings, reflecting an intellectual rigor, conceptual clarity, and a constructive concern for the working class in the face of America’s growing influence over Mexico’s economic system. Including excerpts from some of Galarza’s indispensable books Barrio Boy and Merchants of Labor: The Mexican Bracero Story as well as articles, conference papers, interviews, and previously unpublished reports, the writings in this collection cover such timely subjects as community development, immigration politics and the Bracero Program, the Chicano movement, Mexican American education, ethnic relations, and U.S.-Mexico relations.

Immigrant Women Workers in the Neoliberal Age
EDITED BY NILDA FLORES-GONZÁLEZ, ANNA ROMINA GUEVARRA, MAURA TORO-MORN, AND GRACE CHANG

Interdisciplinary perspectives on an underrepresented labor force

“These analytically rich and ethnographically vivid accounts of immigrant women’s work will help scholars and activists understand these women’s labor conditions and their efforts to gain empowerment and justice. A stimulating and thought-provoking contribution to labor studies, women’s studies, and ethnic studies.”
—Mary Margaret Fonow, coeditor of Making Globalization Work for Women: The Role of Social Rights and Trade Union Leadership

To date, most research on immigrant women and labor forces has focused on the participation of immigrant women on formal labor markets. In this study, contributors focus on informal economies such as health care, domestic work, and the garment industry, where displaced and undocumented women are more likely to work. In examining the complex dynamics of how immigrant women navigate political and economic uncertainties, this collection highlights the important role of citizenship status in defining immigrant women’s opportunities, wages, and labor conditions.

Latin American Migrations to the U.S. Heartland
Changing Social Landscapes in Middle America
EDITED BY LINDA ALLEGRO AND ANDREW GRANT WOOD

New perspectives on Latin American migration to the interior United States

“An important contribution to our understanding of Latin American migration beyond the coast and borderlands. The contributors, ranging from historians to anthropologists to political scientists and sociologists, rethink and reconceptualize our traditional understanding of Latin American migration as well as the Heartland.”
—Kathleen Mapes, author of Sweet Tyranny: Migrant Labor, Industrial Agriculture, and Imperial Politics

Responding to inaccuracies concerning Latino immigrants in the United States as well as an anti-immigrant strain in the American psyche, this collection of essays examines the movement of the Latin American labor force to the central states of Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska, Arkansas, Missouri, and Iowa. Contributors look at the outside factors that affect migration including corporate agriculture, technology, globalization, and government, as well as factors that have attracted Latin Americans to the Heartland including religion, strong family values, hard work, farming, and cowboy culture. The varied essays in Latin American Migrations to the U.S. Heartland seek to reveal the many ways in which identities, economies, and geographies are changing as Latin Americans adjust to their new homes, jobs, and communities.

Black Flag Boricuas
Anarchism, Antiauthoritarianism, and the Left in Puerto Rico, 1897–1921
KIRWIN R. SHAFFER

Transnational networks of radicalism in the Caribbean

“Black Flag Boricuas sheds a great deal of light on the anarchist movement in Puerto Rico, a little-studied topic with implications in important debates on religion, education, colonialism, nationalism, and labor. This overall picture of an intellectually dynamic movement will be of interest to scholars interested in anarchism and Latin America.”
—Mark Leier, author of Bakunin: The Creative Passion: A Biography

This pathbreaking study examines the radical Left in Puerto Rico from the final years of Spanish colonial rule into the 1920s. Positioning Puerto Rico within the context of a regional anarchist network that stretched from Puerto Rico and Cuba to Tampa, Florida, and New York City, Kirwin R. Shaffer illustrates how anarchists linked their struggle to the broader international anarchist struggles against religion, governments, and industrial capitalism. Their groups, speeches, and press accounts—as well as the newspapers that they published—were central in helping to develop an anarchist vision for Puerto Ricans at a time when the island was a political no-man’s-land, neither an official U.S. colony or state nor an independent country.

KIRWIN R. SHAFFER is an associate professor of Latin American studies at Pennsylvania State University and the author of Anarchism and Countercultural Politics in Early Twentieth-Century Cuba.

Citizens in the Present
Youth Civic Engagement in the Americas
MARIA DE LOS ANGELES TORRES, IRENE RIZZINI, AND NORMA DEL RÍO

A transnational study of active and engaged urban youth

“Investigating the experience of young activists, their motivations, and the forms of their engagement, this innovative book presents a refreshingly optimistic picture of dedicated and engaged young people.”
—Anne B. Smith, coeditor of Advocating for Children: International Perspectives on Children’s Rights

Although media coverage often portrays young people in urban areas as politically apathetic or disruptive, this book provides an antidote to such views through narratives of dedicated youth civic engagement and leadership in Chicago, Mexico City, and Rio de Janeiro. This innovative comparative study provides nuanced accounts of the personal experiences of young people who care deeply about their communities and are actively engaged in a variety of public issues. Examining the role—or absence—of youth in contemporary public and political discourse, the authors investigate what motivates young people in these cities, which forces influence them, and what their actions reveal about democratic practices in cities in the Americas today. Drawing from extensive interviews and personal narratives from the young activists themselves, Citizens in the Present presents a vibrant portrait of a new, politically involved generation.

MARIA DE LOS ANGELES TORRES is director and professor of Latin American and Latin studies at the University of Illinois at Chicago.

IRENE RIZZINI is a professor at the Pontifical Catholic University of Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, and the director of the International Center for Research on Childhood. Kings for Three Days
The Play of Race and Gender in an Afro-Ecuadorian Festival
JEAN MUTEBA RAHIER

A vibrant study of symbol and social significance in one of Ecuador's black populations

“A captivating and informative study of the Roman Catholic Feast of the Three Kings as celebrated in two Ecuadorian towns. Rahier gathers extremely rich observations, described in minute detail and finely illustrated, and the book sheds new light on Ecuadorian race and gender relations with great flashes of analysis.”
—Kris Lane, author of The Colour of Paradise: The Emerald in the Age of Gunpowder Empires

With its rich mix of cultures, European influences, colonial tensions, and migration from bordering nations, Ecuador has long drawn the interest of ethnographers, historians, and political scientists. In this book, Jean Muteba Rahier delivers a highly detailed, thought-provoking examination of the racial, sexual, and social complexities of Afro-Ecuadorian culture, as revealed through the annual Festival of the Kings. During the Festival, the people of various villages and towns of Esmeraldas—Ecuador’s province most associated with blackness—engage in celebratory and parodic portrayals, often donning masks, cross-dressing, and disguising themselves as blacks, indigenous people, and whites, in an obvious critique of local, provincial, and national white, white-mestizo, and light-mulatto elites. Rahier shows that this festival, as performed in different locations, reveals each time a specific location’s perspective on the larger struggles over identity, class, and gender relations in the racial-spacial order of Esmeraldas, and of the Ecuadorian nation in general.

JEAN MUTEBA RAHIER is an associate professor of anthropology and the director of the African & African Diaspora Studies Program at Florida International University. He is the coeditor of Global Circuits of Blackness: Interrogating the African Diaspora.

The Samuel Gompers Papers, Volume 13
Cumulative Index
SAMUEL GOMPERS
Edited by Peter J. Albert and Grace Palladino

The final volume in a landmark documentary history

“A distinguished and invaluable collection.”
—Bruce Laurie, Industrial and Labor Relations Review

Samuel Gompers (1850–1924) devoted his life to improving the conditions of American workers through better wages, shorter workdays, and safer workplaces, achieved through common effort, democratic organization, and practical action. His objective was betterment, or, as he often said, “more.” His moral vision was grounded in a commitment to social justice and a passion for service. A cigar maker by trade, he became the American Federation of Labor’s first president in 1886 and, except for one year, remained its president until his death, guiding it through prosperity and recession, war and peacetime. By the time Gompers died, the AFL was a major force on the national scene and had claimed over four million members.

The previous twelve volumes of The Samuel Gompers Papers, edited by Stuart B. Kaufman, Peter J. Albert, and Grace Palladino, for the first time make Gompers’ wide-ranging and complex documentary legacy accessible to scholars, students, historians, and serious readers in the labor movement and among the public at large.

This invaluable comprehensive index provides a key to the Gompers volumes. It not only allows quick reference to individual documents but permits scholars to see at a glance the contours and emphases in subject matter and locate the substantive annotations of key individuals and unions, strikes and lockouts, conferences and meetings, and legislation and key concepts in the history of the Gompers era.

PETER J. ALBERT and GRACE PALLADINO are codirectors of the Samuel Gompers Papers. Peter J. Albert’s other books include the fifteen-volume Perspectives on the American Revolution, coedited with Ronald Hoffman. Grace Palladino’s most recent book is Skilled Hands, Strong Spirits: A Century of Building Trades History.

American Journal of Psychology
ROBERT W. PROCTOR, EDITOR

The American Journal of Psychology (AJP), founded in 1887 by G. Stanley Hall, has published some of the most innovative and formative papers in psychology throughout its history. AJP explores the science of the mind and behavior, publishing reports of original research in experimental psychology, theoretical presentations, combined theoretical and experimental analyses, historical commentaries, and in-depth reviews of significant books.

Issued quarterly. Subscription price: individuals, $74; institutions, $258. ISSN 0002-9556. E-ISSN 1939-8298. Online version available (JSTOR CSP).

American Journal of Theology and Philosophy
MICHAEL L. RAPOSA, EDITOR

The American Journal of Theology and Philosophy is dedicated to the creative interchange of ideas between theologians and philosophers on some of the most critical intellectual and ethical issues of our time. Topics include public theology and American culture, religion and science, ecological spirituality, feminist cosmology and ethics, process thought, metaphysical theology, postmodern thought, and the viability of historical and contemporary concepts of God.

American Literary Realism
GARY SCHARNHORST, EDITOR

For over forty years, American Literary Realism has brought readers critical essays on American literature from the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries. The whole panorama of great authors from this key transition period in American literary history, including Henry James, Edith Wharton, Mark Twain, and many others, is discussed in articles, book reviews, bibliographies, documents, and notes on all related topics.

Issued fall, winter, and spring. Subscription price: individuals, $35; institutions, $50. ISSN 0002-9823. E-ISSN 1940-5103. Online version available (JSTOR CSP).

American Music
NEIL LERNER, EDITOR

American Music publishes articles on American composers, performers, publishers, institutions, events, and the music industry, as well as book and recording reviews, bibliographies, and discographies. Recent article topics have included Duke Ellington and early radio; John Cage’s HPSCHD; the WPA music copying project; defining the Easy Listening era; Milton Babbitt in academia; the soul roots of Bruce Springsteen; the benefit concerts of Jack Benny and Danny Kaye; and the boyhood of Henry Cowell.

Issued quarterly. Subscription price: individuals, $47; institutions, $110. ISSN 0734-4392. E-ISSN 1945-2349. Online version available (JSTOR CSP).

American Philosophical Quarterly
PAUL MOSER, EDITOR

Since its inauguration in 1964, the American Philosophical Quarterly has established itself as one of the principal English vehicles for the publication of scholarly work in philosophy. The whole of each issue—printed in a large-page, double-column format—is given to substantial articles; from time to time there are also “state of the art” surveys of recent work on particular topics. The editorial policy is to publish work of high quality, regardless of the school of thought from which it derives.

Issued quarterly. Subscription price: individuals, $60; institutions, $320. ISSN 0003-0481. E-ISSN 2152-1123. Online version available.
Black Music Research Journal
HORACE MAXILE, JR., EDITOR

Begun in 1980, Black Music Research Journal is published in the spring and fall of each year and includes articles about the philosophy, aesthetics, history, and criticism of black music. Many issues are devoted to a single theme, such as Blind Lemon Jefferson or black music in Europe. Black Music Research Journal is an official journal of the Center for Black Music Research.

Issued biannually. Subscription price (journal only): $60. CBMR Associate Membership: individuals, $80; institutions, $157. ISSN 0276-3605. E-ISSN 1946-1615. Online version available (JSTOR CSP).

Bulletin of the Council for Research in Music Education
EVE HARWOOD, EDITOR

The Bulletin of the Council for Research in Music Education provides a forum where contemporary research is made accessible to all with interest in music education. The Bulletin contains current research and reviews of interest to the international music education profession.

Feminist Teacher
EDITORIAL COLLECTIVE

Feminist Teacher provides discussions of such topics as multiculturalism, interdisciplinarity, and distance education within a feminist context. FT serves as a medium in which educators can describe strategies that have worked in their classrooms, institutions, or nontraditional settings; theorize about successes or failures; discuss the current place of feminist pedagogies and teachers in classrooms and institutions; and reveal the rich variety of feminist pedagogical approaches.

Issued fall, winter, and spring. Subscription price: individuals, $45; institutions, $114. ISSN 0882-4843. E-ISSN 1934-6034. Online version available (JSTOR CSP).

History of Philosophy Quarterly
RICHARD C. TAYLOR, EDITOR

History of Philosophy Quarterly specializes in papers that cultivate philosophical history with a strong interaction between contemporary and historical concerns. Contributors regard work in the history of philosophy and in philosophy itself as parts of a seamless whole, treating the work of past philosophers not only in terms of historical inquiry, but also as a means of dealing with issues of ongoing philosophical concern. The journal favors the approach to philosophical history, increasingly prominent in recent years, that refuses to see the boundary between philosophy and its history as an impassable barrier.

Issued quarterly. Subscription price: individuals, $60; institutions, $320. ISSN 0740-0675. E-ISSN 2152-1026. Online version available.
History of the Present
JOAN W. SCOTT, ANDREW AISENBERG, BRIAN CONNOLLY, BEN KAFKA, SYLVIA SCHAFER, & MRINALINI SINHA, EDITORS

History of the Present is a journal devoted to history as a critical endeavor. Its aim is twofold: to create a space in which scholars can reflect on the role history plays in establishing categories of contemporary debate by making them appear inevitable, natural, or culturally necessary; and to publish work that calls into question certainties about the relationship between past and present that are taken for granted by the majority of practicing historians.

Issued biannually. Subscription price: individuals, $30; institutions, $160. ISSN 2159-9785. E-ISSN 2159-9793. Online version available (JSTOR CSP).

Journal of the Abraham Lincoln Association
BRYON ANDREASEN, EDITOR

The only journal devoted exclusively to Lincoln scholarship, Journal of the Abraham Lincoln Association appeals specifically to Civil War historians and aficionados and more generally to scholars concerned with nineteenth-century American history. In addition to selected scholarly articles, the journal also features photographs and newly discovered Lincoln letters and documents.

Issued biannually. Subscription price: individuals, $32; institutions, $40. ISSN 0898-4212.

The Journal of Aesthetic Education
PRADEEP DHILLON, EDITOR

This highly respected interdisciplinary journal is a valuable resource for educators in the arts and humanities, aestheticians and philosophers of arts, educational administrators and policy makers, and anyone interested in teaching the arts. The Journal of Aesthetic Education focuses on how to impart to the young the understanding, skills, and attitudes prerequisite for the aesthetic mode of experience and its benefits and for knowledgeable cultural participation.

Issued quarterly. Subscription price: individuals, $50; institutions, $122. ISSN 0021-8510. E-ISSN 1543-7809. Online version available (JSTOR CSP).

Journal of American Ethnic History
JOHN J. BUKOWCZYK, EDITOR

Journal of American Ethnic History (JAEH) addresses various aspects of American immigration and ethnic history, including background of emigration, ethnic and racial groups, Native Americans, immigration policies, and the processes of acculturation. Each issue contains articles, review essays, and single book reviews. There are also occasional sections on “Research Comments” (short articles that furnish important information for the field, a guide to further research or other significant historical items that will stimulate discussion and inquiry). JAEH is the official journal of the Immigration and Ethnic History Society.

Issued quarterly. Subscription price: individuals, $45; institutions, $245. ISSN 0278-5927. E-ISSN 1936-4695. Online version available (JSTOR CSP).

Journal of Animal Ethics
ANDREW LINZEY AND PRISCILLA N. COHN, EDITORS
The Journal of Animal Ethics is the first named journal of animal ethics in the world. It is devoted to the exploration of progressive thought about animals. It is multidisciplinary in nature and international in scope. It covers theoretical and applied aspects of animal ethics—of interest to academics from the humanities and the sciences, as well as professionals working in the field of animal protection. The Journal is published by the University of Illinois Press in partnership with the Ferrater Mora Oxford Centre for Animal Ethics.
Issued biannually. Subscription price: individuals, $55; institutions, $158. ISSN 2156-5414. E-ISSN 2160-1267. Online version available (JSTOR CSP).

Journal for the Anthropological Study of Human Movement
DRID WILLIAMS AND BRENDA FARNELL, EDITORS
Now in an online-only format, the Journal for the Anthropological Study of Human Movement presents current research and stimulates discussion of ideas and issues that arise from a study of human movement within the framework of anthropological enquiry. Recognizing that there are overlaps between the concerns of this field and those of other human and social sciences, such as philosophy, linguistics, sociology, and psychology, we encourage contributions from members of other disciplines who are interested in movement as a world-wide, and particularly human, phenomenon.
Issued biannually. Online only. Subscription price: individuals, $70; institutions, $126. E-ISSN 2152-1115.

Journal of Education Finance
KERN ALEXANDER, EDITOR
The Journal of Education Finance is recognized as one of the leading journals in the field of funding public schools.
