Series Editors: Peter N. Stearns and Susan Matt

Love, anger, sadness, shame. All have a history, and all have shaped history. The University of Illinois Press introduces a new series that explores the vital field of the history of emotions—a field that offers innovative and often startling perspectives on the past. Discarding outdated notions of people in past societies as purely rational actors, scholars in the series will examine how history felt to those who lived it and how private feelings have shaped public realities. They will present cutting edge research on the way emotions, and the social rules that govern them, have shaped domestic relationships, gender roles, and work dynamics. The series will publish books that explore the diverse ways individuals have experienced and expressed particular emotions as well as scholarship that examines the connections between emotions and political, religious, economic, and family life. It seeks studies of emotional experience, emotional norms, emotional communities, and the connections between the emotions and other aspects of social and personal behavior. The History of Emotions series encourages contributions from, and concerning, all major regions of the world, and a wide variety of time periods.

Please direct all questions and submissions to:
James Engelhardt, Acquisitions Editor, jengel04@illinois.edu
University of Illinois Press, 1325 South Oak St., Champaign, IL 61820-6903

Now available in the series

Shame
A Brief History
PETER N. STEARNS

Peter N. Stearns draws on his long career as a historian of emotions to provide the foundational text on shame's history and how this history contributes to contemporary issues around the emotion. Written for interested readers and scholars alike, Shame combines significant new research with a wider synthesis.

186 pp. 6 x 9. 10 charts, 1 table. 2017.
Paperback 978-0-252-08292-4. $24.95; E-book

The Science of Sympathy
Morality, Evolution, and Victorian Civilization
ROB BODDICE

"Exemplary. Boddice demonstrates that the culture of Victorian science changed irreversibly what sympathy could mean and how it could be felt. The book will be at the top of my list when people ask, "What does it look like when you do the history of emotions?""—Daniel M. Gross, author of The Secret History of Emotion: From Aristotle's Rhetoric to Modern Brain Science

Paperback 978-0-252-08205-4. $28.00; E-book

Driven by Fear
Epidemics and Isolation in San Francisco’s House of Pestilence
GUENTER B. RISSE

“A well-researched study that demonstrates the shortsightedness of governments that focused more on satisfying business interests than on funding adequate health provisions in response to epidemics.”—Journal of American History

"An excellent account of the largely overlooked role of pesthouses in public health history.”—Western Historical Quarterly 316 pp. 9 7/8 x 12 1/4 b & w photos. 2016.

Paperback 978-0-252-08138-5. $30.00; E-book

Doing Emotions History
EDITED BY SUSAN J. MATT AND PETER N. STEARNS

"An essential reference for those in emotions history and for anyone who wants to understand the contours and promises of this emerging field.”
—Canadian Journal of History

Contributors are John Corrigan, Pam Epstein, Nicole Eustace, Norman Kutcher, Brent Malin, Susan Matt, Darrin McMahon, Peter N. Stearns, and Mark Steinberg.

224 pp. 2014.
Paperback 978-0-252-07955-9. $27.00; E-book