Critical Digital Humanities
The Search for a Methodology
JAMES E. DOBSON

"Dobson deploys his acumen as a literary theorist to show how everything touching computational methods from computational logic to algorithmically derived tools is subject in one way or another to the modes of humanistic critique that computational scientists claim to have rendered obsolete." — Donald E. Pease, author of The New American Exceptionalism

From Papyrus to Hypertext
Toward the Universal Digital Library
CHRISTIAN VANDENDORPE
Translated from the French by Phyllis Aronoff and Howard Scott

"A wonderful series of short essays on the nature of text as it has been affected by the digital revolution. Vandendorpe is a careful and intelligent observer of a profound shift in textual behavior." — William Barker, president, University of King’s College, and professor of English, Dalhousie University, Halifax

208 pp. 6 x 9. 10 b & w Photos, 1 line drawing, 1 table. 2009.
